TATTO Extensions

These sessions extend and expand the conversations of TATTO 600 and program-based TATTO trainings. They are opportunities for students to learn and discuss different aspects of teaching and gain more insight into best practices and new approaches to excellence in teaching. This semester, our two TATTO extensions will be organized by winners of the Martha and William Dobes Outstanding Graduate Teaching Fellow Award.

The Martha and William Dobes Outstanding Graduate Teaching Fellow Award promotes reflection on the impact of themes of science, reason, and/or humanism upon the research and teaching activities of advanced graduate students. Awardees develop an LGS-facing remote training, workshop, or presentation related to their teaching expertise.

NIH Resilience Training Program

The Laney Graduate School and the Office of Postdoctoral Education have partnered to offer a virtual program through the NIH Office of Intramural Training and Education (OITE) on Becoming a Resilient Scientist. Participants will be asked to watch various webinars on their own time, followed by a synchronous discussion with the program co-facilitators, Lydia Soleil, Director of Career Development in the Office of Postdoctoral Education and Rob Pearson, Assistant Dean of Professional Development in the Laney Graduate School. Please note that because this is a pilot program from the NIH intended to train our facilitators, an observer from the NIH will be attending all small group discussions. Click here to learn more.

- Unit I. An Introduction to Resilience and Wellness
- Unit II. Exploring our Self-Talk: Cognitive Distortions and Imposter Fears
- Unit III. Self-Advocacy and Assertiveness for Scientists
- Unit IV. Developing Feedback Resilience
- Unit V. Managing Up to Maximize Mentoring Relationships
- Resilience Training Program Reception (Current and past cohorts invited)

Online Resources for Graduate Students

Aurora, by Beyond the Professoriate

The Laney Graduate School is pleased to offer LGS graduate students to Beyond the Professoriate's professional development training platform Aurora. The platform offers recorded workshops in preparing for a range of career paths, panels and interviews with PhDs working in a variety of positions, and an interactive workbook to help guide you through the career exploration and application process.

Access the tool here. (You must be a current LGS student to authenticate. Select "Login through your institution" and select Emory University.)

Professional Development and Career Planning Resource Repository

Over the last year, we have accumulated recordings and resources related to our offices' trainings for graduate students. We have made these available on our PDCP Resource Repository, which is a Canvas page that may be accessed by permission.

To request access, please contact the Professional Development and Career Planning office at (lgs.profdev@emory.edu). Once you have been granted access, you may access the Resource Repository here

Interfolio Dossier Service

The Laney Graduate School is again able to offer a limited number of access codes for a free Interfolio dossier account to graduate students who are nearing completion, are entering the job market, and plan to use the service. The supply of codes is very limited and there are some restrictions on how it may be used. Please contact Rob Pearson (lgs.profdev@emory.edu) to request a code.
